MINNESOTA MAGNATE
BUYS IN BUTTE CLUB

A Minnesota man has acquired an interest in the Butte baseball club, according to the Butte Miner. The new man will not have much to do with the management of the club, but will act more in the capacity of "financial adviser." W. E. Lyman of Crookston, Minn., formerly owner and manager of a team in the Northern league, is the new owner of the Miners. The deal was practically consummated two months ago, but has not been made public for reasons not given.

C. H. Lane retains his former interest and is president of the team, and Walter Wilmet will manage. Mr. Lyman's end of the team is merely financial, and while he is expected here to make a trip with the boys, he will not take an active part in the affairs other than advisory.

A fact regarding Skell Rouse, which has not heretofore been made public, is that the national board of arbitration in the dispute over the services of this pitcher for the coming season awarded him to the Butte team. Skell has been written by Manager Wilmet, and will send his puzlers over the plate for Butte, Hamilton and Swindell have also written Wilmet and will line up for another season here.

The date for the first scheduled meeting has been definitely set for Salt Lake City on April 2nd.

DENVER GETS TWIRLER
FROM LOBSTER AGGREGATION

Special to The Tribune.
OGDEN, Utah, March 13.—"Jack" Nash, the popular young twirler of last season's "Lobster" aggregation, has signed up to play with Denver in the Western league. Nash will leave soon to begin training with the Cubs so as to be in readiness for the opening of the season.

Nash is well known in both Ogden and Salt Lake, having held down the pitcher's slot for the Junction City aggregation during the season that the Lobsters were at their height. His friends in Ogden predict that he will make good with the Western leaguers if given half a chance.

COLORADO TRACK MEN ARE WORKING HARD

Largest Squad of Athletes in History of School Now Training for Spring Meets.

According to reports from Denver, the University of Colorado athletes are working hard and have hopes of putting out the best track team in the history of the institution. The Boulder students have an arrangement with the universities of Kansas and Nebraska, whereby the best men of the three schools will be sent to the St. Louis exposition to compete with athletes from the leading schools of the country.

A large squad of men, working for places in the different events, and some good results are reported. The Boulder men say that they will not be satisfied with less than three men on the tri-state team, and expect to have four or five.

According to a recent article in the Denver Times, the U. C. track team will give its competitors a hard run for the money, and the Utah athletes will no doubt have to be on their toes when they meet the Boulder boys in May. The Times says:

"There are now more candidates than ever before turning out every afternoon for practice, and the entire field is even more active than during the football season."

"As the active season approaches the track men are gradually bringing their style into better form. The coaches have been working for some time on form alone, regardless of distances and heights. Attention will now be given to running the figures up to the highest point. The weekly races which are being run off are giving the men a great deal of experience in making the starts and gauging their speed according to the distances, as they will have to do in the races, especially the long-distance ones."

"Ernest M. Clayton of Idaho Springs, who won the pole vault in the intercollegiate meet last year, is showing form at the university this year. After winning first place last spring he made an exhibition vault of ten feet, which is the highest that has ever been made by a Colorado man. Bill Johnson is leading the elite squad in the short sprints, and nobody has yet been able to equal him in the high jump. Jordan has been training for many weeks with the discus, and he is getting it off in better form and with a greater distance than any of the other men, although Capt. Bell is going to give him a hard run for first place. Brickman, who won first in the 100-yard dash last year, has not yet turned out. Jordan, Bell and Korns are putting the shot and throwing the hammer. Clayton, Levitt, Welsh, Anne and several others are vaulting the pole, but none of them have yet attempted a great height. Law has so far made the best showing in the mile run, his time being in the neighborhood of five minutes. There is such an abundance of candidates in the half-mile and 220 that the leading men cannot be picked out for some time. Kingberry and Trudican and Trudican will have to be heard of in the short sprints. On the whole, the coaches are well pleased with the state of development and the prospects for the Colorado team."

JIMMIE WIGGS IS READY.

HOW THE PITCHING STAFF OF THE ELDERS WILL APPEAR TO VISITORS.

This is "Jimmie" Wiggs as he will appear at Walker's cabbage patch this summer in a Mormon uniform. Wiggs has been signed for this season by the management of the Salt Lake ball club, and is considered one of the strongest pitchers in the league.

Jimmie is well known to Salt Lake fans, both on account of his stature and his pitching ability. Last fall in a double-header against Seattle, Wiggs pitched twenty-two consecutive innings, winning both games. In the summer of 1902 he broke the world's record, pitching forty-four consecutive innings without a run being made against him.

Wiggs broke into the national game in Canada in 1899, when he pitched for London in the Ontario league. The following year he was in the box for St. Joseph, Mo., in the Western league, finishing out the season with the Des Moines team.

In 1902 Wiggs played with Helena and made an enviable record. The Montana club was anxious to retain him last year, but the Salt Lake management made him a good offer, so Wiggs became an Elder. He played a short time with the Cincinnati club, but a lame arm compelled him to retire.

This year "the mighty Jimmie" will again wear a Salt Lake uniform, and will no doubt uphold the brilliant record made here last season.

Editor Tribune—I do not think I am a natural-born rickler—pardon the expression—but I kick. The way the papers in general jump facts and imagination together in commenting on the Smoot investigation case is enough to exasperate the gods of the ancient Greeks. Note the Sacramento Bee for instance: "About the most striking thing about the Smoot investigation is the fact that the man who turned Hagar out into the wilderness. In one respect at least Smith of Utah is a better man than Abraham of Ur. Why do learned editors so often take pains to mislead us poor ignorant people and try to heap up honor where none belongs? I for one fail to see where Smith of Utah is a 'better man' than Abraham of Ur. Has not Mr. Smith told on the witness stand of what would become of the wife in Mormonism who would object to her legal lord having as many wives as his fancy dictated one could have believed that Mrs. Smith No. 1 is a better wife than was Sarah, wife to Abraham, who objected to Hagar, or rather Hagar's son, and thereby caused Abraham to do the meanest thing he ever did, according to the Bible. But having had light thrown on the case that would naturally lead to submission, one cannot give Mrs. Smith No. 1 credit for being a better woman than Sarah of old, therefore the only excuse for Mr. Smith's superior conduct is that of Abraham's. BIG 'UNS WILL PLAY IN OGDEN

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, March 12.—Although Ogden failed to get a place in the Pacific National league, she has not lost her taste for baseball, as is evinced by the fact that the Junction City sports have made arrangements to have the Chicago National and American league teams stop off and play on their way home from California.

William Binford, the popular manager of the old Lobster ball team, is managing the affair, and it is now almost a certainty that the two big league teams will play at Ogden on March 26th.

The original plan was to have the Chicago Americans meet a picked team from the Junction City, but at this time it is found to be impracticable. Binford arranged to have the Americans and Nationals cross bats for the edification of the Ogden fans.
